

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

PREFACE.

THE following Vocabulary of the Manks language has been compiled with considerable labour and assiduity. It is designed to facilitate the attainment of that ancient language, and to furnish the reader not only with a variety of vocables, idiomatic phrases, and proverbial expressions, but also the outlines of a Manks Grammar.

That a language so venerable for its antiquity and so estimable on many accounts should be so generally neglected, is much to be lamented. The consequence of this neglect has been, that numerous corruptions have crept into the dialect in general use, and so many anglicisms been adopted, that the Manks is now seldom spoken or written in its original purity. Despised and neglected, however, as the language appears to be at present, it is susceptible of high improvement, and justly entitled to the attention of the scholar. The sublime strains of Ossian mark the capabilities of the language, and commend it to the regard of the philologist as a subject of curious enquiry, and deserving accurate investigation.

At the present period, when this interesting little Island promises to become once more the abode of science and literature, it is hoped that Gaelic learning will revive, and that every facility will be afforded for the acquisition of a language so essentially necessary within the precincts of Mona to the students of Divinity, and the students of Law. To both these classes, it is presumed, the compilation now offered to the public will prove an important acquisition. Such a publication has long been a desideratum in Manks literature, and possesses fair claims to general acceptance. Whilst the natives of Wales and the natives of North Britain are enthusiastically attached to the language of their forefathers, let it not be said that the natives of Mona regard "Chengey ny mayrey Vannin veg veen" with disgraceful apathy and heartless indifference. As long as the Manks Bible and the Manks Liturgy remain they will testify that our ancestors thought and felt more correctly.

Amongst the numerous literary advantages which "King William's College" is expected to afford the sons of Mona, it is devoutly to be wished that the cultivation of the vernacular tongue be not overlooked. The establishment of a professorship for that specific object would be highly desirable,—such an arrangement would be in perfect unison with the pious and benevolent design of the Founder of the Academic Fund, whose primary object appears to have been to prepare candidates for the Holy Ministry in the Isle of Man, and thus promote the highest and best interests of the country.

If the following work should contribute in the smallest degree to advance so important an end, the Compiler will have reason to regard his labour as well bestowed.

INTRODUCTION

TO THE

MANKS LANGUAGE.

I am well aware that the utility of the following work will be variously appreciated by my brother Manksmen. Some will be disposed to deride the endeavour to restore vigour to a decaying language. Those who reckon the extirpation of the Manks a necessary step towards that general extension of the English, which they deem essential to the interest of the Isle of Man, will condemn every effort which seems likely to retard its extinction.

But those will think otherwise who consider that there are thousands of the natives of the Island that can at present receive no useful knowledge whatever, except through the medium of the Manks language; they will judge from experience, as well as from the nature of the case, that no work of this description will hinder the progress of the English, but in fact have the contrary effect.

It is obvious, that when tribes of men are intermixed who speak different languages, a great part of the knowledge which man should afford his neighbour must be diminished. The Magistrate cannot address his suitors,—the Pastor his flock, but through the imperfect medium of an interpreter. Lawyers, Divines, Physicians, Merchants, Manufacturers, and Farmers, all feel more or less this inconvenience when they transact business with whom they have no language in common.

To remedy such defect, the following Manks Dictionary, with the corresponding words in English, may, it is hoped by the Compiler, contribute in some degree to facilitate the acquisition of both the Manks and English languages; and, if received with indulgence, may be followed by its counterpart, "ENGLISH RENDERED INTO MANKS."

To place the present publication within the reach of the peasantry of the Isle of Man, it has been greatly abridged from what was at first purposed by the author; notwithstanding which, it is hoped will give general satisfaction, and be a standing memorial of that very ancient language—the Manks or Gaelic, to generations yet unborn; as it may with a degree of truth be asserted that we have little more than two-thirds of the language preserved in the published translation of the Scriptures and the Church Liturgy.

The following Remarks of Reference, with the work itself, will enable the reader to form some idea of the construction of the language.

REMARKS,

TO WHICH ARE ANNEXED FIGURES OF REFERENCE.

Of the LETTERS and their SOUNDS.

- 1. THE Alphabet consists of seventeen single and three double consonants, and seven vowels -e, e, i, o, u, w, y. Of the consonants, fifteen are mutable—b, c, ch, d, f, g, j, k, m, p, q, s, sh, sl, t. The immutables are—l, n, r, which always retain their sound; and alter not, except when preceded by s in the beginning of a word to show the degrees of comparison. Gh and ph begin no radical, or at least ought to begin none, as the language now stands; although there are word that are so written: these are shown where they occur in the work, and will be seen only to be aspirations, gh of g and of d, and ph of p. Sh and al must be considered double consonants as they have a change peculiar to themselves, and differ from the other radical initialled s's. The v is considered a secondary mute.
- 2. A is reckoned a broad vowel, and in some words sounded as o, as in CLAGH (a stone), clogh; and as u, as in GOAN (scarce), goun. It is pronounced as a in the English words of man, pan; as, BAD, LAD, BAB, &c.; and when circumflexed, as in mâroo, sârey, is sounded as in matron, &c.
- 3. \boldsymbol{B} is a labial, or lip-letter, and pronounced as \boldsymbol{b} , in English ; as, BARE, BOAYL.
- 4. C preserves a strong sound in its unaspirated state, as the English k, or as c in can; as, CAM, CAPPAN. It never, however, usurps the pronunciation of s, as in the English words cistern, city, cedar, &c.
- 5. CH has a soft sound, as in CHAGHTER, CHARBAA, CHINGYS; like ch in English, in cherry, charcoal, chime, &c.
- 6. CH has a hard or harsh sound, which sound is not in the English language. I cannot express it better than by a word which I would write or spell egh or egg-yth, and a, CHA (not); and which sound would go through with the vowels, thus: egh e, CHE; egh i, CHI; egh o, CHO; egh w, CHU; egh y, CHY; and with CHLA, CHLE, &CC.; and CHRA, CHER, &CC., &CC.
- 7. D is pronounced as d, in English, in drone, dunnal, &c.
- 8. But D, in other words, as if written and pronounced dh, as in DAA, DOO, &c.
- 9. E is reckoned a small vowel, but is sometimes sounded long, and sometimes short; the latter sound as heard in men, ten, bed (in English) answers to the Manks BEN, REN, SHEN, &c.

- 10. The long or circumflexed E, as in mériu, t'éh, té, vé, &c., like the English they, bey; or as a in way, hay, say, &c.
- 11. F is called a weak consonant; because, when aspirated, it looses all its force; as, FEA (rest); EEA (his rest.) It corresponds in many cases with v; and has the English sound in FA, FAASE, FOAYS, &C.
- 12. G is a heavy consonant, and pronounced as g, in English, in gain, get, go; as, GAMMAN, GOAILL, GARRISH; but has no soft sound as in the words gentle, generous, &c.
- 13. When G is aspirated to gh, it is reckoned a light consonant, and has a gutteral sound; no such sound is in the English language; and although gh is in ghost and ghastly, they are only sounded gost, gastly.
- 14. H is pronounced as $\hat{h}$ in the words $\hat{h}$ and, $\hat{h}$ old, &c. in English. Some would rather cell $\hat{h}$ an auxiliary than a letter, because it rarely begins any radical word except a few small ones, as, hannah, hym, &c., and serves only to aspirate the other consonants, as, ch, gh, mh, ph, th, &c; or the vowels, as, $ha, $he, $hi, &c. When it aspirates from $t$, followed by an $r$, it is often sounded as $ch$, as $\mathbf{k}$ end (his envy); &c. It is an initial in feminine genitive nouns; as, $\mathbf{k}$ head of will); $\mathbf{k}$ head of will); $\mathbf{k}$ head of this envy!; $\mathbf{k}$ could be $\mathbf{k}$ ends.) The masculine of those would be $\mathbf{k}$ eddings face); $\mathbf{k}$ and $\mathbf{k}$ face); $\mathbf{k}$ face); $\mathbf{k}$ and $\mathbf{k}$ face); $\mathbf{k}$ fac
- 15. I is one of the small vowels, and pronounced as i (in English) in pin, win, sin; as, SHIMMEY, SHID, SHILLEY.
- 16. J is pronounced exactly like the soft English g, and is perfectly uniform in its sound.
- 17. K. This letter has precisely the sound of hard c, in English, and is never silent as the English k in knee, knave, know, &c.
- 18. L. Some say this letter admits of no aspiration, and is pronounced as l (in English) in law, live, love; as, LAUE, LIOAR, LANE; but I think there is a distinction between lie or ly in English, and LHIE in Manks; and had the words LOO, LOOR, &c., been spelled or written LHOO and LHOOR, they would have answered the Manks pronunciation better; for without the h the sound is too narrow, except to those who know that they require that sound.
 - 19 M is a strong consonant, but it is often changed into v; and when it is followed by w, oo, or u, it changes to v or w, when aspirated.

- N is sounded as n in English; it is never aspirated nor eclipsed, but yet called a light consonant, and is often doubled to give the greater sound.
- 21. O is a broad vowel; when acuted as o in gone, in English, answers the Manks son, cron, &c.
- 22. When O is circumflexed as in bone, shone, open, &c., thus oney, oye, &c. Manks.
 - 23. O before I in the Manks, sounds ont.
- 24. P. This is a hard consonant, and pronounced as p in English.
- 25. PH is sounded as the English f.
- 26. Q, which is always followed by u, has the sound of kw.
- 27. R is a light consonant, and pronounced as r in English; but some times when an initial, it requires to be sounded as if written rh; as, RED (a thing), RED.
- 28. S, although called the queen of consonants, is subject to many changes, as shown in Remarks 55, 56, 57, 58, 111, 112, 161, &c. It sounds as (in English) savor, sense—saggyrr—sollan.
- 29. This is a hard consonant, naturally commuted with d; as, DY GERRID, for DY GERRIT.
- 30. When T is an initial before a vowel, it requires to be sounded as if written th.
- 31. U is one of the three broad vowels with a and o, and sounded as a (in English) in cumber; as, CUM (hold).

ŀ,

- 32. V is not properly a radical initial consonant; but only a secondary mute. However, we have some few words which begin with v as a radical; as, VAIDJYN, VBIR, &c.
- 33. W. Though I have set down this letter as a vowel, I know of no syllable or word without another vowel attached to it, with consonants, to make a word or syllable. The Welsh have it a vowel, without any support. Its sound is as oo (in English) in boot, soot, root; as, WARDOON, WARF, WARREE.
- 34. Y. This letter as a vowel and a consonant is too frequently used in the Manks. Its first or primary sound would be as i (in English) in bind, bile. &c.
- 35. But Y has another sound as u, and is as i (in English) in bird, third,—answering to the sound in spyrryd, ymmyrchaen, ynrican, &c. in Manks.
- 36. This letter has the sound of e in the word the (in English); as, DY, DYY, MY, SY, &c.
- 37. Y some times has the sound of ee, as in the English, barley, belly, stingy, &c.; as, LHEIY, GUIY, SEIY, &c.
- 38. Such words as begin with mutable or changeable consonants, viz.: b, c, ch, d, f, g, j, k, m, p, q, s, sh, sl, and t, change these their radical initial letters as occasion require, and according to the effect the preceding words have on them.

- 39. The letter A, as an initial in radical verbs, changes to d, or rather has d placed before it, as shown in Remark 60; and to g, (or has g placed before it) as shown in Remark 61; and also changes to n, (or has n placed before it) to show the preterit or past time of the action of the verb: and so of all the vowels when radical initials.—See Remark 119, &c.
- 40. But the letter A and all the vowels change to λ (or have λ placed before them) to show the gentive or ownership case of the feminine gender, as may be seen under the H in the work, and in Remark 14.
- 41. Words, primarily beginning with B, have three initials, viz.: b, v, m; as, braak (a brother); exhabe (is brother); nyn mraak (your,-&c. brother); &c. &c.
- 42. But when the second letter after the B is w, oo, or w, such words change to w or v as an initial; as, BOOLAGH (willing or pleased); FEER WOOLAGH (very willing or pleased, &c.); and EWOALLEE (as fold); E WOALLEE (his fold); BUIGHEY (jaundice); YN WUIGHEY OF VUIGHEY (the jaundice or yellows).
- 43. Words beginning with C have three initials, $\forall z.: c_s \, c \lambda_s$ and g_s as, carrey (a friend); $z \, c \lambda_s \, c$
- 44. Words beginning with CH have also three initials, viz.: ch, h, and j; as, chemesy (a tongue); nyn jengey (your, &c. tongue), &c.
- 45. Words initialled by D have two, viz.: d and gh; as, dooinney (a man); e ghooinney (his man), &c.
- 46. Words radically initialled by E, have four, and so have all the other vowels the initial vowel, and there others, viz.: e, or the other vowel, and d, g, and n; as, seck (pay); DEECK (paid or did pay); GEECK (paying). See Remarks 60 and 61; and ER NEECK (hath or having, &c. paid). See also a change mentioned in Remark 40.
- Some words commencing with E, radically, for better sound's sake begin with y; as, erast (a fish), yerast; bean (a chicken), yeran, &c.
- 48. Words beginning with F have nine or more changes, viz.: d and v, and the first vowel or consonant after the f, if the preceding word change it.
- 49. Words radically initialled by G have two, as g and gh; as, deat (wind); IN GHEAT (the wind). G also sometimes changes to y; as, diare (short); RO YIARE (too short), though sometimes spelled chiare; ciall (white or bright); RO YIALL (too bright). This and others are also written RO CHIALL, &c.
- 50. Words commencing with J have two initials, j and g; as, j are (God); E YEE, (his God); &c.
- 51. Words initialled with K have three, viz.: k, ch, and g; as, keyrey (a sheep); E cheyrey (his sheep); NYN GEYREY (your &c. sheep), &c.

- 52. M, beginning words has but two initials, viz.: m and v; as, moven (pride); E voyen (his pride), &c.
- 53. P, beginning words has three initials, viz.: p, ph, and b; as, POOAR (power); E PHOOAR (his power); NYN BOOAR (your &c. power), &c.
- 54. Q, beginning radicals, has three initials, viz.: q, wh, and g; as, quaitl (a court); E whulill (his court); NYN GUAITL (your, &c. court), &c.
- 55. S, beginning words radically, has many changes, viz.: s, λ , t; as sooill (an eye); E HOOILL (his eye); YN TOOILL (the eye).
- 56. And if S be followed by A, it changes to cA and h_1 as, shean choolings (an old man); yn chenn choolings (the old man); e henn choolings (his old man).
- 57. When S is followed by l, it changes to cl and l; as, slar (a rod); YN CLAT (the rod); E LAT (his rod, &c.)
- 58. The letter S, apostrophized before adjectives and participles, I think is an abreviation of smoo, by which the degrees of comparison are shown throughout the language; first, the positive, FIRRINAGH (true); secondly, a degree above the positive; as, s'FIRRINAGH (how true); thirdly, the comparative, NY S'FIRRINGH (more true); fourthly, the superlative, YN RAA S'FIRRINGH (the truest saying).
- 59. T, beginning words radically, has three initials, viz.: $\delta$, $\delta$ and $d$; as, Towes (a measure); HOWSE (his measure); NYN DOWSE (your, &c. measure).

of VERBS.

- 60. Verbs commencing radically with vowels, begin with d to show the preterit or past time of action, or negatively; as, AABL OT AARLEB (COOK, dress, or prepare); DAARLEB (did cook, dress, or prepare); and negatively, OBA DAARLEB, &c.; and SOYLLEE (dung or manure); DROYLLEE (did dung, or manure); and CHA DEOYLLEE, &c.
- 61. Verbs beginning in like manner with vowels, to show the present and also the past time of action, begin with g; as, AASE (grow); GAASE (growing); VA MER GAASE (I was growing); IRRE (ISS); &c.
- 62. Of verbs irregular, which do not altogether change according to the foregoing remarks.— CHBET (coming), changes to HAINE, DAINE, HIG, JIG, HARR, DARE, HEET, JEET, TAR.

CLASHTYN (hearing), CLASHT, CHLASHTYN, CHEAYLL, CLUIN, CHLUIN, GEAYLL, GLUIN.

CUE, OF COYET (giving, putting, sending, &c.), CHOYET, HUG, DUG, WER and WERR, DER and DERE.

FARIN (seeing), ARIN, FAIR, HEE, HONNICE, VAIR, VARIN, N'AIRIN.

GEDDYN (getting), GHEDDYN FOW, HOOAR, DOOAR, YIO, YIOSH, YIOW, NOW, VOW, VOGH.

- GOAILL (taking), GHOAILL, GO, GHO, GOW, GHOW, N'CHOAILL.
- Goll (going), HIE, HEM, HEU, HOOIN, GOW, RAGH, JAGH, JED, JEM, JE'OO, N'GHOLL, GHOLL.
- GRA (saying), ABBYR, DOOYRT, GHRA, JIR, and JIRR, WIARR, N'ABBYR, N'YIARR.
- JANNOO (doing), JEAN, JIN and JINN, YINN, N'YANNOO.
- 63. The regular verbs change their initials according to what has been said on the changing of the letters and their terminations, as specified in Remarks 77—88.

Of PLURALS.

- 64. Of the forming of plurals in the Manks, the addition of vn to the singular is the most common, which is shown after the singulars through the work. Have the plurals housen, (which was formerly used as the plural in the English for houses), oxen, men, women, children, &c., any analogy to this? Undoubtedly they have.
- 65. Other words are formed into plurals by the addition of AGHYN to the singulars; these, for the most part, are given in the work after their singulars.
- 66. There are other words that only require GHYN to be added to the singular.
- 67. Some singular words, ending in my, change the my to achtyn, to pluralize them; as, caccey (war); caccachyn (wars); coonary (help); coonachyn (helps), &c.
- 68. Other words ending in my, change the y to myn; as, bunney (sheaf); bunnemyn (sheaves) &c.
- 69. Other singulars ending in E and EY, change the E and EY to YN; as, PAITCHEY (a child); PAITCHEY (children); FOCELE (a word); FOCELEN (words).
- 70. Some few singulars ending in LEY, change the LEY to JYN; as, BILLEY (a tree); BILLYN (trees); BALLEY (a town or estate); BALLYN (towns or estates), &c.
- 71. The termination of singulars in AGH, for the most part to pluralize them, changes the AGH to BE; as, GIMMAGH (a lobster); GIMMEE (lobsters), &c.
- 72. The ending of singulars in AGH, AGHT, IN, OT YN, SOMETIMES CHANGES TO BEYN; 8S, EADDAGH (WOOllen cloth); EADDEFYN (WOOllen cloths); CLADDAGH, singular; CLADDEFYN, plural; CURNAGHT (Wheat); SKILLIN (a shilling); SKILLEFYN (shillings).
- 73. There are other formations of plurals in the middle of words; as, MAC (a son); MEC (sons).
- 74. Others by changing on or o, to ui; as, dorn (a fist); duien (fists); stoyl (a stool); stull (stools).
- 75. The changing of E to I makes plural in some words; as, FEE to FIR, &c.

76. There are other words that require the change of Y to 1; as, CABBYL (a horse); CABBIL (horses), &c.

Of the TERMINATION of VERBS.

- 77. Of the termination of verbs, or the compounding of auxiliary verbs, pronouns, &c., to the verbs.—AGH, added to a verb, is used with all the nominative pronouns, except I; as, $\hat{he}$, $\mathbb{E}$H; $\hat{che}$, AD; we, shin; $\hat{she}$, $\mathbb{E}$B; you, shiu; $\hat{the}$, oo, &cc., as the words may require; and means sould or wouldst, could or couldst, might or mightest, &cc., do the action of the verb; or would or wouldst, &cc., not do the action of the verb; as the verb bers (overtake); bersage werb; as the volum, &cc., overtake); or, chabbreage oo (thou wouldst bot overtake); &c., &c.
- 78. AIL, joined to a verb, signifies ing in English; as, EAAR (spend); BAARAIL (spending); FAAG (leave); FAAGAIL (leaving); &cc.
- 79. AL, added to a verb, has the same meaning as ALL, ing, in English, and may be termed the grand Mankeifer-general of English verbe; as, trying, TRYAL; firing, FIXAL, &c., &c; but not to the credit or honour of those who so make use of it.
- 80. EE. This added to a verb, and used with the nominative pronouns (except I or she) means will or will, shall or shall, perform the action of the verb to which it is annexed; or will or shall not perform the action of the verb, as set forth in remark 77, on AGH; that is, would; and this is, will and shall do.
- 81. EIL. This, as well as ALL and AL, when added to a verb, means ing; as, DOOTTELL (doubting); TREISHTELL (trusting).
- 82. EY. This syllable, also added to a verb, corresponds to the English fag, or the doing or performing the action of the verb to which it is annexed; as, cobbracher (working); FLUIGHER (wetting), &c.
- 83. IN. This termination, which always requires to be sounded as if wristen in, partakes of the nature of the auxiliary verb would and the pronoun I; as, BERR (Overtake); BERRIN (I would overtake), and when so joined together is called pronominal.
- 84. INS. This termination to a verb is the emphatic, absolute, certain, especial or particular of the preceding IN, is that case to the verb to which annexed, and always requires to be sounded as if written ihns; as, ERRR (overtake); BERRIMS (I would, emphatically, absolutely, or certainly, &c. overtake).
- 85. IT or T. These terminations, which answer to the English ed, must, to retain the proper Manks sound, be pronounced as if written the, and Mr, and partake of the nature of an adjective. Added to a verb it becomes a participle. There are many words of this part of speech in English that do not admit of ending in ed; as, grown, found, lost, worn, &c.; yet these all end in it or t in the Manks; as, AASIT, FEDDYNIT, CALLT OF CALLIT, CEAUT, &c.

- 96. YM. This syllable, which partakes of the nature of the pronoun I and the auxiliary verb will, added to a verb, signifies that I will do or suffer the action of the verb to which applied; as, EERR (overtake); BERRYM (I will overtake), &c.
- 87. YMS, it may be said, is the same to vm, as INS is to IN, the absolute, certain, especial or emphatic of vm; as, SERE (overtake); BERRYMS (I will emphatically overtake.)
- 88. YS. This termination, and EE, added to verbs, is nearly of the same import; but it is my opinion that the vs means shall or shalt do the action of the verb; and me, will and will; but the translators of the Scriptures into our language use it for both. This syllable, added to a verb, should always be employed where two or more words that are sounded alike happen to. gether; as, EB EE EE (she will eat). When these occur, we generally say EE Ys EE (she shall or will eat). This postfix is undoubtedly used in the subjunctive mood for eat, eate, eateth, eatest, &c; as, my mays, me, ad, oo, &c. (if he eats, if they eat, if thou eateth); MY REYS DOONNEY (if a man eat, shall eat, or eateth); and so of other verbs. In Genesis ii. 17. We have SON ER Y LAA EBYS OO JEH (for in the day thou eateth thereof); and in the xiv. chap. 15, it is, quoi erbse varrys CAIN (whosoever slayeth Cain). This termination is also used in apposition; as, short we DOOINNEY OBBYRYS DIU (this is the man that will or shall work for you).

Of ADJECTIVAL NOUNS.

- 89. Of the forming of adjectival nouns, or substantives made of adjectives, in the Manks, by the addition or changing of a syllable in the termination of a word, corresponding to the English seas, sy, &c.—The most common of these are in and D, which require to retain the Manks sound, and pronounced as if written IRD, and HD. These syllables are sometimes added to the adjective; as, BIOYR (brisk); BIOYRID (briskness); BOUYRID (deaf); BOUYRID (deaf); BOUYRID (deafness); MOOAR (big or great); MOOAD (greatness), &c.
- 90 Some adjectival nouns are made by a part of the adjective being changed; as, JOOIDE (greediness); BERCHAGE (rich), BERCHID (richness), &c.
- 91. Other adjectives are changed for the most part; as, GIALL (bright or white); GILLID (brightness); MARROO (dead); MERRIUID (deadness), &c.
- 92. Some other adjectives require JID in place of the latter syllable; as, MILLISH (sweet); MILJID (sweetness); WRJID (heighth or highness), &c.
- 93. YS and S are sometimes added to the adjective, and at other times placed instead of the last syllable or part; as, DORRAGHEY (dark); DORRAGHEY (darkses); though the change to

ID, in Remark 89, is sometimes used; as, DORRID (darkness); and YNRICK (upright, or sincere); YNRICKYS (uprightness), &c.

94. For sake of abridging the work, the reader is desired, in reference to derivative verbs and their conjunction into pronominals, with the auxiliary verbs shall, will, would, &c., to look to the radical verb, as the letter placed at the end of the explanation shows the initial from which the branch-word is derived; and the figures of reference under the radical answer the meaning in the same manner.

Of PECULIARITIES.

- 95. There are several principles peculiar to the idiom or phraseology of the Manks language, when compared with the English; such as the unnecessariness of the indefinite article a, in general.
- 96. One peculiarity is, that the Manks possesses a piural article, NY (the); as, NY DEINRY (the men); NY CLAGHYN (the stones): Y AND YN ARE the singular definite articles. The collective nouns, such as, OLLAGH (cattle); SLEIH (people); LUGHT-THIE (household or family); MAASE (kine), &c., are, as in the English, not reckoned plural nouns; therefore, have only the definite article YN preceding them.
- 97. A grand principle in Manks is the adjective being placed after the noun or substantive. In English, the adjective has precedence; therefore the quality of a thing is mentioned before the thing itself; but in Manks, (more agreeable to reason and common sense) the substantive precedes the adjective; as, CABBYL MIE (a good horse); BOOA GHOO (a black COW); MAGHER MOOAE (a big field). There are a few exceptions.
- 96. In possessing a plural adjective, the Manks again has an advantage over the English, (there being no difference in the adjectives of singular and plural in that language); as, DEINEY MOOAREY (big or great men); CROINE ARDEY (high hills); THIEYN BEGGEY (little houses), &c.
- 99. Another, is the derivative adjective, as I have called it, of or belonging to a thing. My reason for distinguishing this class of adjectives from others is, that there are some nouns that have two adjectives which differ materially in their meaning; for instance, the sun; as, LAA GRIANAGH (a sunny, or sun shiny day), which I have left a common adjective; but GREINEY, I have marked an adjective derivative, of or belonging to the sun; as, CHIASS GREINEY (the heat of the sun, or the sun's heat); and glion (a glen or valley); GLIONNAGH (having glens or valleys); GLIONNEY (of or belonging to the valley; as, FIRE NY OLIONNEY (the ravens of the valley); and cassage (having feet, or footed); as, maase KIAR CASSAGH (four footed kine); COSHEY (of the foot or feet). The English of this class of adjectival words are aspen, hempen, oaken, baptismal, &c.

- 100. Another principle is, the language not making plural until three; the numbers of twenty, forty, sixty, eighty, a hundred, a thousand, &c. These are not twenty or forty men, but, literally twenty-man, &c. And I think the YN to SHLAGHTINYN redundant, as in Daskel ix. 25 26.
- 101. Another and grand principle is, the emphatic: some instances of this are given in the work; but any substantive, &c. may be made emphatical by adding 's, which requires to be sounded es to the substantive, &c.; as, DTY CHERS'S (thy heart, emphatically); DTY OBBYR'S (thy work, emphatically), &c. In the English, the reader is left at sea without a compass, if he has not learned where to lay the emphasis, as few of the words differ in their form in that language for being emphatic; when unemphatical, thy is to be sounded the, and my, me, &c.
- 102. The substantives being all masculine or feminine, is another; there being no such anomaly in Manks as a neuter gender; we have however a few nouns, pronouns, and pronominals common to both genders. Some will have it that every word in the language is either masculine or feminine.
- 103. The verbs running into auxiliary terminations and pronominals; as, AOH, AIL, AL, EIL, BY, IN, INS, IT, YN, YMS, and YS, as are shown by the remarks of reference throughout the work, is another principle.
- 104. The adjectives and participles throughout the language requiring to be brought under the letter s', to show the degrees of comparison, as set forth in the 58th Remark, are exemplified in the work under that letter, is another.
- 105. The greatest difficulty to attain, by a person that did not learn it when young, is the changing of the initials of mutable consonants, and of vowel letters, or the pronunciation of secondary mutes or aspirations. There is very little occasion for such changing in the English: but to give an English scholar some idea of it, it may be necessary to show him something similar in his own language. The words from home require no change; but let him say at home, and he can hardly say home without a histus, or longer stop than ought to be; he will be very aut to say at tome: this is changing the h to t in speaking. Or let him say at all, and if he be not very careful he will say at tall, or a tall, this is changing the a to t. Or let him say the words, make haste, and he will be very apt to say make kaste: this is changing the h to k; and it is, he will be apt to say it tis; this is changing i to t.
- 106. And the article an, which is nothing more than the article a with an n to come between it and the word initialled by a vowel, if it were placed before the vowel in the word would amount to nearly the same thing; then an egg would be a negg; and an awl would be a newl; an ege would be a neye, &c. &c.; these are somewhat like the changing of the initials in the Manks.

Of MUTABLE INITIALS.

107. The force of the pronunciation of secondary or auxiliary mutes (as they are called) is so different from that of the primary or radical, that they are expressed by different figures or letters in the Manks; from whence arises often the difficulty of finding the etymology of those words that branch or are derived from a radical. The Irish, to prevent this in their language, have a dot, point, or dash, &c. placed over or below the letter; that is, as if b or m required to be sounded v. The primary or radical are always retained, but known by the dash or dot, so that the etymology of words is easily found in that language.

108. Of the causes of the changing of the mutable initials, (d, j, and t, excepted.) Words of the feminine gender change their following words; as, CLAGH VANE (a white stone); which would, if CLAGH were masculine, be CLAGH BANE; LAUR YESH (right hand); if LAUR were masculine, would be LAUE JESH; AWIN VEG: now if AWIN were of the masculine gender, it would be AWIN BEG; AWIN VOOAR, OF WOOAR (& big of great river) if masculine it would be MOOAR; so that the adjectives BANE, JESH, BEG, MOOAR, are the primary or radical adjectives, which are changed by feminine substantives being placed before them to VANE, YESH, VEG, YOOAR. From these examples the learner will see that it is of the utmost importance, in order to write and speak the language correctly, that he should know and be well acquainted not only with the names and words, but also with their genders.

109. Words initialled by vowels are subject to changes, as explained in Remarks 60 and 61. Mutable consonants being initials are also changable, to show the preterit, without any word before them; as, BAIH (drown); but to show the pass time of action I must change BAIH to VAIH; VAIH BH BH YS CHEAYN (he drowned or did drown him in the sea); and gow (take); GHOW EH COILLEY NY V'AYM VOYM (he took all I had from me, or he did take all I had from me); and JERE (hope, trust, or expect); I must change JERE to YERE; YERE MES RISH, AS VA MES MOLLIT (I trusted or expected him, and he deceived me); and MOL (deceive); AGH VOL BH MEB (but he deceived me). BAIH, GOW, JERE, MOL, are thus changed to their aspirations, vaih, ghow, yere, vol, &c.

110. Another cause of change is the vocative case, O YEE! JEE, (God) is here changed to YEE.

TAR MARYM, VEAAR (come with me, brother);
BEAAR is here changed to VEAAR. O HIE YACOB!
(O house of Jacob); the f in THIS and the f in JACOB are here changed. JEAN, is changed to YEAN, and JUAN to YUAN, &c. &c.

111. Changes made by the articles y and yn being placed before radical words, most of those initialled by vowels, borrow, as it were, the n from yn, in the pronunciation. The translators of the Scriptures have given another n to AB, or AB

(second); as, YN NAH (the second); and according to this rule, YN ALL (the flesh fork) should be YN NALL; YN OLLAGH (the cattle), YN NUSHTEY; &c.; but they have not been uniform in this rule, having given it to some words and withheld it from others. Y and YN when placed before b change it to v; c to ch; f to the second letter whether vowel or consonant; but the want of change in some of these is so faint that perhaps it would be better to retain the f in some than to omit it. G changes to gh; k to ch; m to v; which last, often in conversation, slides into w. P changes to ph; qu to wh; s to t; sh to ch; sl to cl; y and y in do not change ch, d, f, and t.

112. The pronoun \mathbf{z} (his), changes the following mutable initials, viz.: δ to \mathbf{v} and \mathbf{w} , when \mathbf{vo} , \mathbf{w} , or \mathbf{w} , immediately follow; \mathbf{c} to \mathbf{ch} ; \mathbf{ch} to \mathbf{h} and \mathbf{f} similar to what is said on that letter in the preceding Remark. \mathbf{G} to \mathbf{gh} ; \mathbf{f} to \mathbf{y} ; \mathbf{k} to \mathbf{ch} ; \mathbf{m} to \mathbf{v} ; and which last, as shown in the preceding Remark, often slides into \mathbf{w} , in conversation. Pto \mathbf{ph} ; \mathbf{qu} to \mathbf{wh} ; \mathbf{s} and \mathbf{sh} to \mathbf{h} ; \mathbf{st} to \mathbf{h} . All the mutables change by the above pronoun.

113. The pronoun s (her), on the contrary, changes none of the mutables; but changes words initialled by vowels, by requiring A to be placed before them.

114. The words DY (to), DTY (thy), and MY, change the mutables exactly in the same manner as E (his) does, as shown in Remark 112.

115. The changes caused by placing the adverb no (too), before adjectives and participles are as follows: b to v or to v, when second letter; c to ch; ch to h; d to gh; g to gh, with a few exceptions to y; f to y; k to ch; m to v; p to ph; ou to wh; s and sh to h; t to h.

116. The changes caused by the auxiliary verb ER (hath, has, have, or having, &c.) placed before verbs, require a to be placed before all the verbs beginning with vowels radically or derivatively. A, e, i, o, u, w, y, change to n; and the gh, when an aspiration of g, which, when initialled by n, has the sound of y, and which shows that it ought or ought not have that letter; but the translators of the Scriptures have written the word GOLL (going), when aspirated to gh; as, ER N'GHOLL, &c.; and the word GIALDYN (promise); as, BE N'GHIALDYN,-Heb. Xi. 11; and BE N'YIALDYN, -Josh. ix. 21. The same may be said of GIARRY, &c. En changes b to v; ch to j; d to gh; f to v, or the next letter in the syllable; g to gh; j to y; k tog; m tov; p to ph; qu to wh; sand sh to h; si to i; and t to d.

117. The changes of the mutable consonants, by placing the adverb v_{max} (very), before adjectives, are as follow: b to v_1 c to ch_1 g to gh_1 k to ch_2 m to v_1 p to ph_1 and qu to cw.

118. The changes the pronoun NYN causes, when placed before verbs and substantives, are as follow: Before words initialled by vowels, many require to borrow the last n in the pronunciation, in a similar case with y n. Nyn changes examples in this page; k to g; p to b; q to g; b to m; c to g; ch to j; f to v; g to gh, or y, and t to d.

In concluding my Observations and Remarks, I cannot but admire the construction, texture, and beauty of the Manks Language, and how the words initially change their cases, moods, tenses degrees, &c. It appears like a piece of exquisite network, interwoven together in a masterly manner, and framed by the hand of a most skilful workmen, equal to the composition of the most learned, and not the production of chance.—The depth of meaning that abounds in many of the words must be conspicuous to every person versed in the language.

Having but few verbs, its brevity may be complained of by some, but this deficiency is amply supplied in the same manner as when a like want occurs in the English. When a substantive or adjective has no verb belonging to itself, another verb is placed before the noun or adjective; as, by ve (to be); by omodill (to take); by Geddyn (to get); by chuz (to give, put, send), &c.: by yannoo (to do, make, or perform), &c.

We have no verb for maynesy (happy)-neither has the English—nor its noun, MAYNEYS (happiness); but we say, DY VE MAYNEY (to be happy), &c. That our ancestors (the translators of the Scriptures) were tenacious that no infringement should be made in this particular is obvious. as the Scriptures, with a few exceptions to their orthography, &c., are an invaluable work. The verb to pray occurs above two hundred times in the English Scriptures; yet the translators have not once used that mongrel word, PRAYLL, or its parent, PRAYAL, (see Remark 79), which, and the like, are now generally used without reserve. I do not, however, allude to the Clergy, who, to their credit, always say goaill padjer; se PADJER; JANNOO PADJER, &c.; and when there is no necessity, we should not borrow from the English, but endeavour to keep the language as pure as possible.

D, for its sound see Remarks 7 and 8. words under this letter not marked 7, require the sound spoken of in Remark a; and as a radical initial and its changes see 45. D is an initial in words radically from all the vowels, and also from F, as explained in Remarks 60 119, 121, 143, &c.; in substantives from S, to show the plural possessive or ownership case; and in T for both nouns and verbs, a few of which may be seen by the letters at the end of the lines.

DA, p. p. 8. to him, for him, him, to, for; as, chur mee da ch (I gave it to him); te aym da (I have it for him); lhig da (let him); eeck da Cesar (pay to Cesar); -syn, id em. It may not perhaps be amiss to state here that this word has something very singular belonging to it as respects the idiom of the English language, but which is, however, peculiar to the Manks. A person that would attempt to translate passages wherein this word occurs in the Manks Scriptures, according to the Hamiltonian or interlinary system, would think it su-perfluous in many instances, especially where it is placed before plural and feminine nouns; as in 1 Tim. v. ix. Ny lhig da ben-treoghe ve goit; which, to translate literally, would run thus, let not him a widow be taken; and in Gen. chap i. Ihig da ny ushtaghyn (let him the waters); Ihig da ny esanice (let him the fowls), &cc. &c. A learner must not hesitate to sacrifice the idiom of his own language to learn that of another, but must form phrases altogether incorrect and foreign to his own language.

DAA, a. 8. two, the dual number; adv. twice, doubly. This is not the word used in counting. but that which is always used with its substantive in the singular number, as the Manks does not make plural till three. See 100.

Dv. adv. to; when placed before verbs is always to; as, dy aagail (to leave); dy aarlaghey (to cook); dy arraghey (to shift); &c. &c.; pronounced dhe.

Dv, pre. (pronounced Dhe) of, when placed before substantives; as, lane dy arroo (full of corn); land dy ooir (a load of earth); kuse dy hollan (a quantity of salt), &c.; there may be exceptions nevertheless; as, with boayll dy boayl, 2 Chron. xvii. 5; although I think that dy there is only as a substitute or corruption for gys or dys.

Dy, adv. that or there. I think this word, as used in composition, to be adverbial; as in er aggle dy bee (lest that); er aggle dy beagh (for fear that be); or (for fear there be); dy row (that was); (there was); (that be); (be as that); 2 Sam. xviii. 32.

Dr, conj. if; dy beagh eh (if he were); dy raghin, or, as it is spoken, dy thoin (if I went); dy n'aasagh oo mooar (if thou wouldst grow big). The word dy is a particle used in composition before adjectives, to make them adverbs, as nearly every adjective can be made an adverb by placing dy before it. For sake of abridging the work I have only inserted a few, yet the reader may understand how they are made, by the following.

This letter is radical in all words under it when it is initial, except a few from F.

ICE, UICE, or AUICE, s. f. a creek or gullet. In looking over Dr. Borlase's vocabulary of the Cornish language, (which is now nearly ex-tinct,) I found a word which exactly answers to our Ghaw, Giau, Guick, or Giuag, a creek or gullet. There are not less than nine places in the south of this Island, the names of which end in ick, viz.-Fleshick, Spoldrick, Parwick, Saundrick, Grenick, Soderick, Pol-Dressick, Saundri lick, and Garwick.

s. This, in the Manks, is only an ending syllable to adjectives, and makes them substantives; its meaning is, for the most part, the same as the English ness. See 89, &c.

Ί

This letter and its changes see remarks 30 and 59; it takes in derivatives from S. Most words in T would sound better, according to the Manks pronunciation with $\lambda$ after them, as shown in Remark 30.

TA, v. (present tense) am, are, art, is; is an answer in the affirmative corresponding with yea, or ay, in English, though not the same part of speech. Ta mee (I am); ta shin (we are); ta oo, or as contracted, t'ou (thou art); ta eh, or as contracted, t'eh (he is); and as contracted for the neuter gender, te (it is). There are other words that answer affirmatively when the question is put to suit them, as, she (yes); nee (will); fod (can); &c., &c. the answers negatively would be chanee, cha jean, cha vod, &c. There is great nicety in these replies; but however illiterate the Manksman may be, he never fails using the proper word. Ta is only used in assertions and affirmations: see vel, which has the same meaning in interrogations.

Yn TAAGH, s. the vessel.
